

There should be a limit to the number of TV stations that one owner should own. You will lose the local control and programming like we have with radio. When programming is controlled by one entity the country loses its local 'flavor'. Too few will control the info that we receive. The FCC should look out for the people not the big media giants.